EXPLORING IMMIGRATION AND IDENTITY

in the K-5 classroom using Américas Award Books

Américas Award K-5 Teachers Workshop
Friday, February 6, 2015
9:00 am - 3:00 pm
Stanford University

The Center for Latin American Studies (CLAS) and the Stanford Program on International and Cross-Cultural Education (SPICE) are offering an exciting K-5 workshop focusing on strategies to incorporate Latin American and Latino children’s literature into the elementary school classroom.

Featured speakers include Duncan Tonatiuh, author of Pancho Rabbit and the Coyote (2013, Abrams Books for Young Readers) and Tomás Jiménez, Associate Professor of Sociology and Director of Stanford’s Chicana/o-Latina/o Studies.

Registration is $25 and includes breakfast, lunch, and a copy of the book Pancho Rabbit and the Coyote by Duncan Tonatiuh. Please register by January 12, 2015, at http://tinyurl.com/ncks8sf or call 650.725.1480.
